

This is a letter written to you.

Dear friend,

I hope this letter finds you well. I know life has been tough and there are so many challenges in life but we want you to know that you are not alone in overcoming them. Take a moment to answer this question, “How many challenges have you already overcome in life?” Wherever you are now, I’m sure you have gone through a lot but look at you, you are still fighting. That is all that matters really --- and you are stronger than you think you are. Life may not be great at this time but I believe you will fight to the end. There are so many surprises to discover in this world so promise me, go out and see the world for yourself. Whether it is a walk in the park at sunset or a trip to the place you have long wanted to go, get to it! Remember to enjoy the moments and smile. Everything will be alright, and I mean it when I say so. Now, until next time, my friend. Maybe you will see me somewhere on your journey through life. At that time, please tell me all the stories you have found, I would love to hear them.

Love,

An Acquaintance
